

French horn bells in a festive mood.

What does an imaginative photographer do with time on his hands in a factory that makes band instruments?

He could lie down and wait until the feeling of frustration passes—or load his camera with film and have some fun. That's what this photo page is all about—the fun of capturing the gleaming symmetry of band instrument parts.

Simulating the tones and values of music these instrument parts will someday impart, the camera caught the tones and values of the orderly row upon row of French horns, the stillness of saxophone sections, the blare of bugles and the majesty of music still in the making.

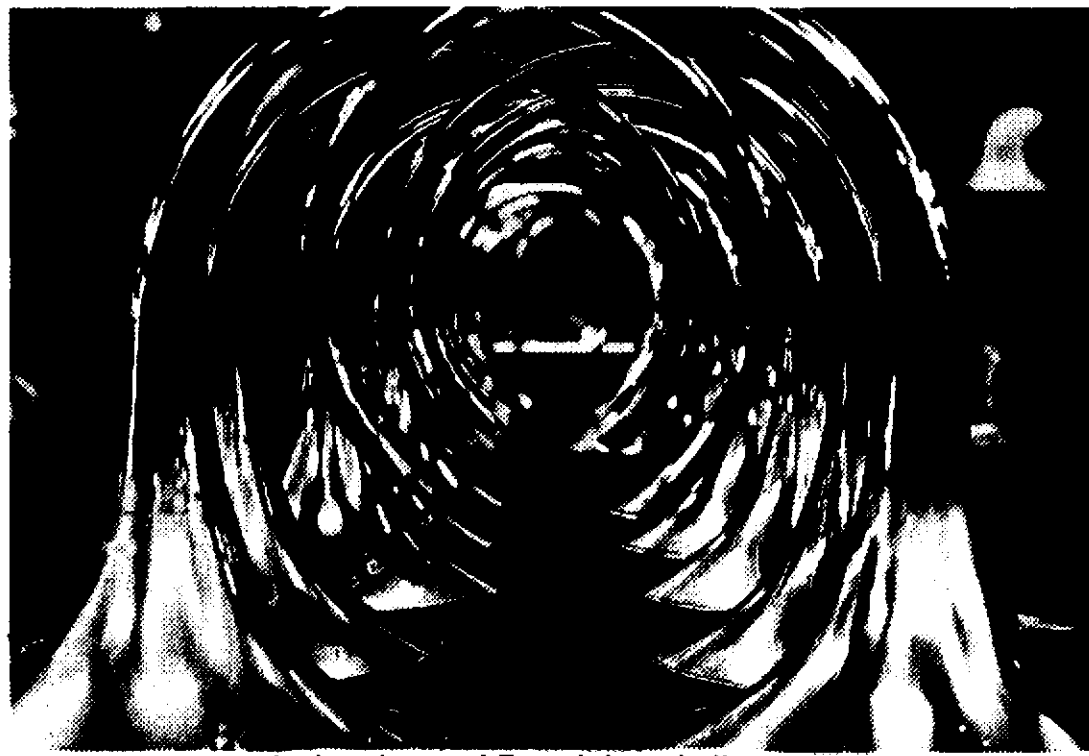

Did the cameraman have fun? Judge for yourself. While you are at it, take the simple test below and see how well you do naming the instruments turned out for thousands of amateur and professional musicians from the busy Conn Band Instrument plant in Elkhart, Ind.

| | 19. Trombone | |

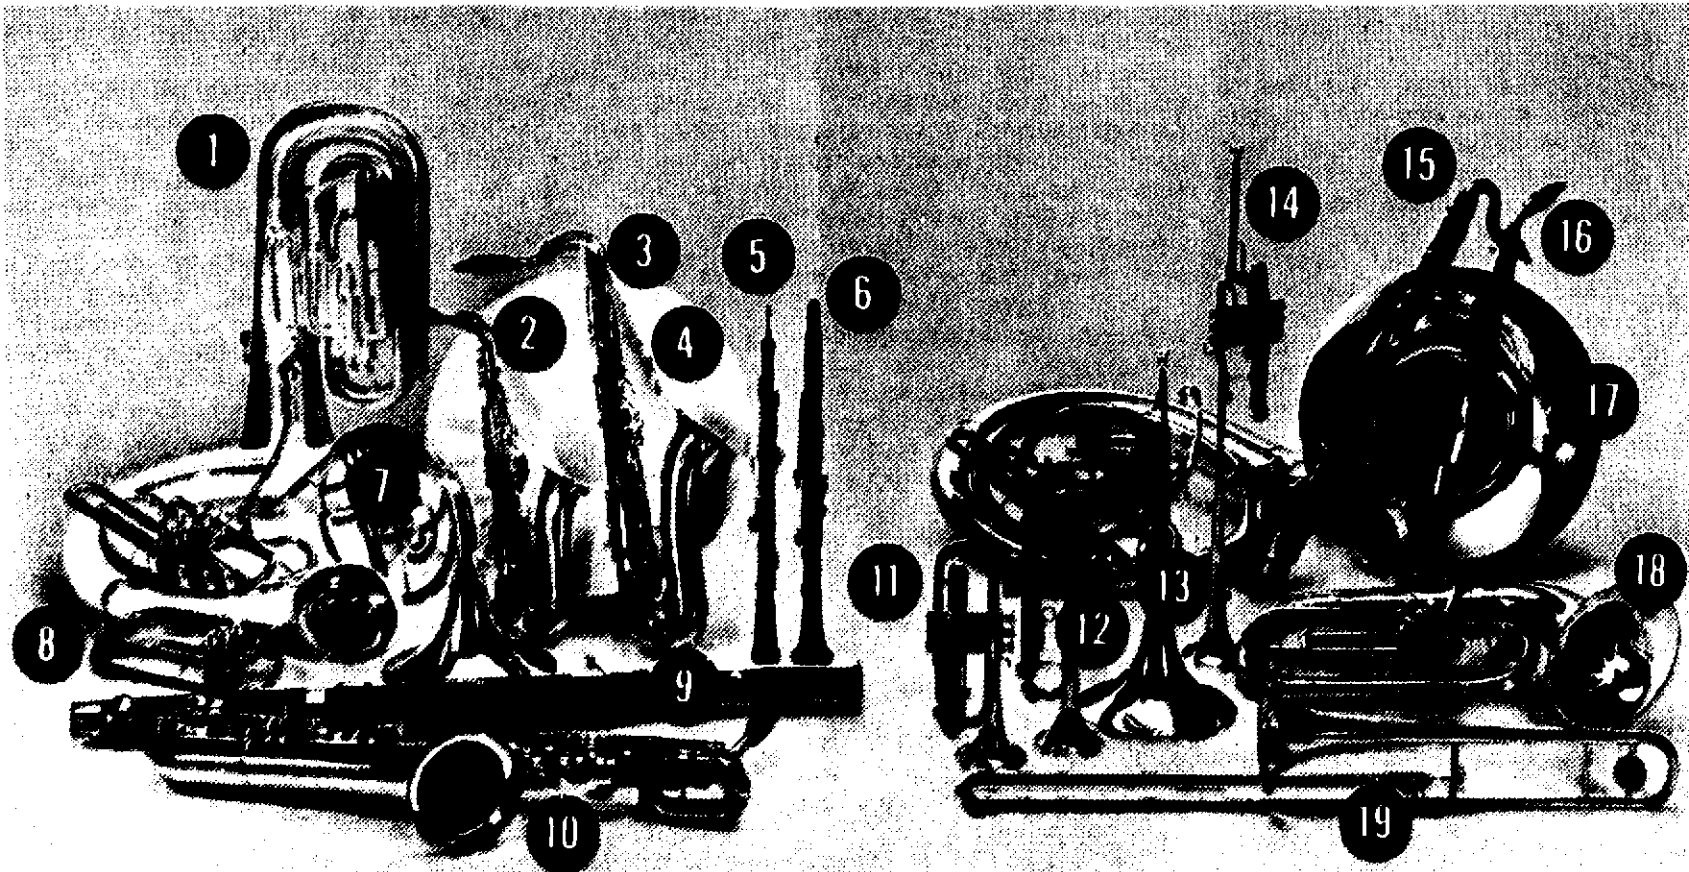

Would you believe this tangle of spatulas and stems of French horns will someday be making music?

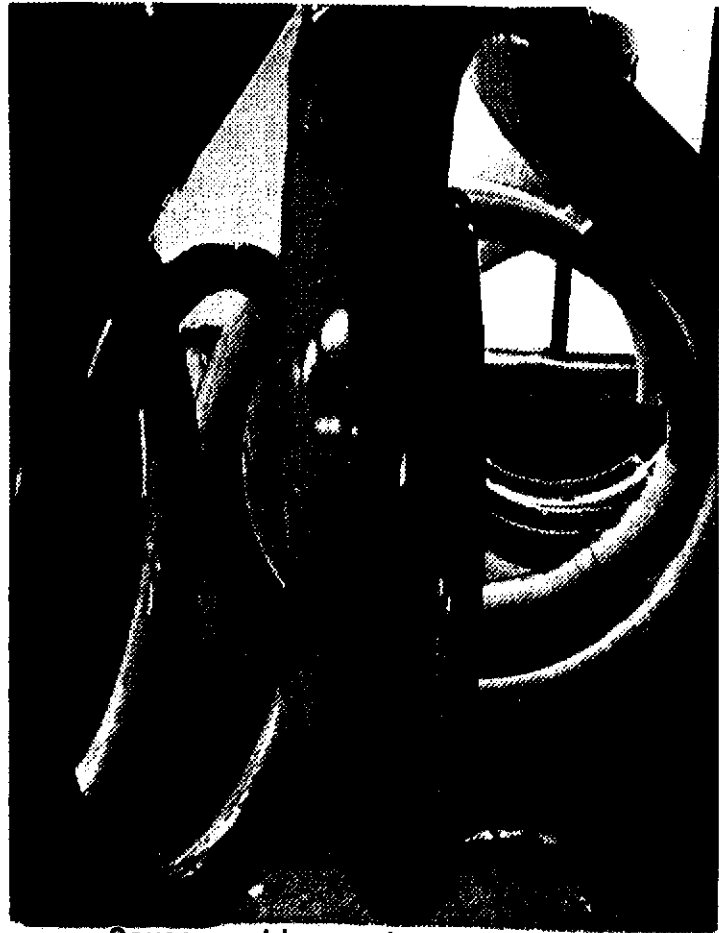

A musical archway of French horn bells and stems.

These grotesque pipes will soon be graceful saxophones.

How many of these band instruments can you name? (See listing shown above for identification.)

Sousa would never have recognized these fiberglass sousaphone bodies.

THE NON-ANONYMOUS BASKETBALL PLAYER WRITES AGAIN

Dear Helen: Thanks for answering my complaint about "fans" who drive a basketball player to his hotel room, I hope you'll accept my apology for not making my point more clear.

It isn't the ordinary interested questioner who bugs me — I like to talk with these fans. They help me with my game, though I can't tolerate people who shove a pad under my nose and insist on an autograph while I'm eating breakfast. But the ones who really make me shudder are the little men with the big eye (cameramen), or someone with a tape recorder or pencil and note tablet — or a man in a radio or TV broadcast booth. These are the noisy ones who'll trap you into saying what you don't mean. They even try to crowd into my hotel room, and would I didn't lock my door.

They ask silly questions like, "How long do you think you'll last in this league?" or, "Who's going for that gal of yours while you're away?"

No, I'm not Will Chamberlain, nor will I ever be. However, the Big Dipper is a close friend of mine — and, believe me, tough competition too!

Can you now suggest a "pesticide," Helen, that discourages nosiness? — THAT NON-ANONYMOUS BASKETBALL PLAYER

Dear NAP: Sorry, You'll never lose "nosy" reporters as long as you "hoop it up" in the big time. However, if you grant interviews and stop running, I think you'll find these reporters are pretty human after all. . . . And after reading your diplomatic reply to my rather snippy answer, I'd say you've got the basic tact to handle them!

Now please — won't you send me your name, so I can write you a REAL fan letter? — H.

PERSONAL TO "HOPEFUL HIPPIE": If you don't like "stern reality," wear a girldie! And try your half-baked dopeness elsewhere. I don't dig it! — H.

Dear Helen: Here's an answer to D.N.A., the immature young teen who thinks she and her 15-year-old boy friend should get married to spite her folks. I hope she listens good! She will only spite herself.

I got married at 14, with my parents' consent. I thought I was mature, as I stacked up to a 38-21-35 body. I only looked the part. My husband was almost 25.

This summer I will be married seven years. I have four children and am expecting my fifth. I learned too late that marriage isn't all romance and sweet words.

You must be wondering about my husband, right? Well, when we were married, he was a manager of a large food store. We started out with a brand new convertible all paid for, and a nice chunk in the bank.

What's he like now? We lost the car, we spent the money, he lost his job. He now works for $1.50 an hour digging ditches in nice weather.

One last thing: we're separated.

D.N.A., honey, is this what you want out of a "baby marriage?" All it adds up to is diapers, bottles, loneliness, poverty and heartbreak. My only joys in life are my children. Please don't do it! — ONE WHO KNOWS

Dear Helen: I am 17, engaged to a fellow who is away in the Service. I love him deeply and our families approve. We had our first real quarrel during his first leave. I found he had

Television and Brownies Helping Men in Vietnam

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The 1966-67 television season is history. Its races run, its victors hailed. Until the reruns started it was a pretty rough time with an extraordinarily high mortality rate for new shows.

When the season started in September, 34 new series were bidding for favor in the evening schedules of the three major networks. By midseason, 12 already had been canceled and replaced. Among the early drop-outs were some illustrious show business names — Garry Moore, Milton Berle, Jean Arthur and Tammy Grimes among them.

By next September, only nine of the original 1966 starters will have survived. Several which will disappear over the summer were permitted to totter along only because the networks had nothing better with which to replace them.

The single most interesting fact is that the well-established old-timers continued to lead the popularity lists. They were "Bonanza," Red Skelton, Lucy, Jackie Gleason and "Beverly Hills, 90210," to mention a few. Not a single new show climbed into the season's top ten.

Two new ones, "Family Affair" and "Rat Patrol" managed to get into the top 20, and two midseason replacements, "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" and a new "Dragnet" series also have done well.

Viewers responded in impressive numbers to one-shot shows in a range from the Academy Awards show and Bob Hope's Christmas show—perennial hits—to variety hours starring such stars as Dick Van Dyke, Lucille Ball and Jim Nabors.

The networks were impressed. All three are promising more specials than ever next season.

There were some interesting success stories. Jackie Gleason's show, which had fallen into something of a slump, pulled itself up by a series of musicals built around the old "Honeymooners" shows and became one of the most popular shows on the air.

"Mission Impossible," an action-adventure series was drooping miserably in a Saturday evening slot behind the wobbly "Pistols 'n' Petticoats." Then the network switched the positions of the shows and the program shot up into the upper third of the popularity list.

Recommended tonight: "The Crucible," CBS, 9-11:15 EDT, adaptation by Arthur Miller of his play about witchcraft trials in Salem, with George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst; "The Human Voice," ABC, 10-11, Ingrid Bergman in a one-character play by Jean Cocteau.

PVT. JAMES FANT

Brownie Troop 60 in Hope is the reason Pfc. James L. Fant of the U.S. Army in Saigon and his 10 barracks buddies will be receiving candles, cookies, gum, and shelled nuts in the near future. The girls have prepared and sent one box, and another will be mailed this week. Even more welcome will be the letters they have written the soldiers. Some include pictures they have drawn and others will contain photographs.

Serving others has always been an important part of Girl Scouting, and the motto, "Be Prepared," and the slogan, "Do a Good Turn Daily," express the idea in simple and practical terms. Equally important as helping when asked is looking for opportunities to serve. Service should become a habit and a way of thinking whether the service is performing simple, everyday acts at home or participating in community service projects.

With these goals in mind Brownie Troop 60 planned a service project for a local man stationed in Vietnam, and Pfc. Fant and his buddies will be the happy recipients of the food and good will.

Fant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fant, and his wife, Carolyn is making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Powell, until his return to the states.

decent drugstore or sandwich shop nearby? Are you near transportation? Admittedly, if you do find an apartment with all of the above requirements, you have either luck or money. The thing to remember is how many of the rules above the prospective apartment break, which broken rules you can live with, and how you can eliminate the rest.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

ONE MORE AGE-OLD MALE MYSTERY SOLVED? How do you get back hair when it's plain gone? Untold fortunes have been squandered seeking to solve this prevalent tonorial problem. . . . True, it's mainly a problem for older-agers, but baldness, though unusual among young guys, can begin to creep in early, and disease or accident really bring it on. . . . mostly for future peace of mind, though maybe for some teens soon now—we reveal that baldness today actually can be cured. Among a handful of men it already has been, reports the official medical journal, GP. How? Not with sprinkles from bottles or witchcraft in the light of the moon. . . . Merely by skin grafts—punching out 1/4-inch clumps of hair from the back of the neck and transferring to your dome. A couple hundred of these grafts, clumping a total of about 3,000 hairs, will just about do the job. Nine out of 10 cases are successful. . . . costs run a minimum of $1,000. Start when you're young, guys, putting your money in the bank—against some bald-headed rainy day.

YOU GROOM WITHIN AN INCH OF YOUR LIFE: It may not seem so to middle-agers' eyes, but statistics can't lie. The toilet goods industry reports that so far in the '60s sales have doubled—mostly due to young adult purchases. Studies of the Woolworth people and the American Toilet Goods Association show that your prettifying purchases, however, are real down-to-earth. First you buy soaps, then tooth-pastes, then hair sprays, shampoos, deodorants and (some) colognes. So what beauty-building product is growing fastest? Not an item for boys (yet?)—it's mascara. Ninety per cent of young girls use it (and their moms are picking it up from them!). The same high percentage of girls own more than one lipstick. . . . one-third own up to six. . . . and all like different shades for different occasions (presumably to stripe on the right color for the right mood, weather, apparel, boy). After you've slapped on your big slug of U.S.'s $3 billion annual toilet goods output, to somebody you look (and probably smell) real groomed.

A NOISY NOISE ANNOYS A NOISY TEEN-AGER: Recent scientific studies of modern civilization's built-in din, have brought out new facts calculated to concern even the beat-bombed rock'n'rollers. Happy home, today, is a jungle of noises—cacophony from refrigerators, washing machines, dryers, fans, vacuum cleaners, radios and television sets. (Ever notice how quiet newspaper reading is?) From these many sources, average home noise levels during a day may run from 70 to 80 decibels, according to research reported by the Institute of Life Insurance. While 60 decibels border on the "loud and deafening," multiple home machines running together often clock at 80 to 100. Over 95 decibels is hazardous to the ear. . . . over 100, sustained, can whip up gastric ulcers. For millions living in cities, the roar of outside traffic coming in on top of home-created noise can "affect blood pressure, the heart and disturb every bodily function." What to do?—Never run all home machines full-on at the same time. . . . and remember, drapes, rugs, upholstered furniture (and simply closing doors) help deaden those deadly decibels. Yeah, boys and belles, love that r'n'r. . . . but keep record players and radios at a hip and healthy low clamor.

OH, THOSE FINKY LICENSE PLATES! Tiny Connecticut and tremendous Texas are a lot alike—both allow personalized lettering on auto license plates. So, teens and collegers are now taking license with their licenses in those two states. Nutmeg birds ramble around in wagons bearing tags like "YUHU," "CHIC," "COED" while Nutmeg boys sport "DOH," "OBOY," "WHEE." Down by the Rio Grande young longhorn lovelies and guys wearing LBJ hats wheel between tin oblongs that brag, "GO REB," "38-XKE," "6-PAK," and "2 EAGER." But some day may be disaster—when two guys licensing "SAILOR" and "HI, BABY" meet two belles automotively dubbed "BIKINI" and "Y NOT!"

gone out on me, so I went out for the first time in a year. I met this fellow, Ron, at the party. He seemed nice, and he told me if I'd stop by his office, his boss would talk to me about getting a job.

I went there. Ron said his boss was in the inner office and for me to go in. No one was there. Then Ron locked the door and took advantage of me. I screamed, but no one came.

Helen, I'm so scared I don't want to go on living. Ron says if I tell, people will assume I asked for it and no one will believe I was forcibly attacked. But I can't keep this a secret—I don't think I could even be married, knowing how men are.

Should I tell my fiancé, my parents, the authorities—or will I just ruin my reputation for all time? Please help for I'm about to go out of my mind. —C.H.

Dear C: Tell your parents who should immediately report this attack to the authorities. Your name will not be revealed, but the rapist will hopefully be put where he belongs—in jail.

Too many "Rons" are allowed to go scot free because girls fear for their reputations. You'll come out of this without emotional damage, C. H., if you face it squarely, accept counseling, and let others help you shoulder the burden. —H.

Christian Home Week

Observe this Sunday as Christian Home Service Day. Let us aid our Laymen's Organization in applying Christianity to the Solution of Human Problems. Help remedy the tragedy of Adult Delinquency—the greatest reason for Juvenile Delinquency. The failure of parents has resulted in wrecking millions of young lives. Then Mr. and Mrs. — be sure your failure does not cost you and God the soul of your child.

Wake up! Get right! Make a move in the direction of the church and take your teen-agers with you! Just remember, the Church is the strongest dyke against evil. The Church is the greatest foe of the penitentiary. The Church is mighty important, because Christ died for it.

How can anyone afford NOT to support it — NOT to attend it — NOT to help propagate its teachings? Take your youngsters to church this Christian Home Week.

Spiritual Values take on a very different meaning with us adults once our juveniles become involved in the dope-menace or get in trouble with the police.

You In The Church
The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read this Spiritual Values page and make it a part of your life... it is your heritage.

Usch, Vilket Griseri!

Litter troubles are not confined to the United States, as a spot check in 12 countries revealed recently. Posters in different languages show varying techniques in efforts to keep landscapes uncluttered. The German poster, right, says "Belongs in the waste basket, in no case in the street! Your untidiness adds to your taxes." Israel, below left, appeals to dignity, with "The cleanliness of the city is in your hands." Sweden, below center, resorted to name-calling, saying "Ugh, what pigs! Keep cleanliness in nature."

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Spray-on Dental Adhesive Replaces Bulky Dressings

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A Columbia University dental scientist, Dr. S. N. Rosenstein, claims that feeding habits in early childhood can produce great amounts of tooth decay.

Young children often receive bedtime bottles containing sweetened milk, orange juice, or syrup and water. When the child falls asleep with the bottle still in his mouth, his teeth are continuously bathed in carbohydrates for prolonged periods of time. Fermentation of carbohydrates is a major factor in tooth decay.

In the group studied, older children who had widespread decay were the same ones who had histories of sweetened feedings at bedtime. They also were the ones who became habitual, almost constant, sweet eaters.

A Boston children's dentist, Dr. Ronald Johnson, claims that behavior of young children in dentists' offices usually mirrors the fears, anxiety and worry of their parents. Children of "low anxious" parents were more co-operative and made less fuss about their dental treatment.

That children often reflect their parent's basic attitude toward life is not an uncommon story to one dentist. Some mothers feel deep anxiety when they take their children to the dentist. At least a few mothers have left their children at the dentist's and then nervously paced up and down on the sidewalk in front of the office. It required three appointments for the child of one such mother to even sit for a dental exam.

This is particularly good news for those who require gum surgery in periodical treatment. This new spray-on dressing stops bleeding, reduces pain, accelerates healing and inhibits growth of some organisms.

These tests actually started

"Look, if you fall asleep, I promise I'll read you the ending over the phone tomorrow!"

as a means of finding a simple way for wounded soldiers in Vietnam to stop bleeding until they could be evacuated and given professional treatment. Now it's even being tested for use in filling teeth and relieving toothaches.

The modern American expert depends on several of the so-called wonder bids as part of his bidding system. One of these wonder bids is the weak two bid which shows a good six-card suit and six to 12 high card points. Most of the time the weak two bidder holds a hand near the bottom of the scale since if you hold 11 or 12 high card points and a good six card suit you usually want to open with one.

South's two spade opening was very near the bottom for that bid. North's jump to game was based on the hope that South would have a better hand or that a miracle would materialize.

East's double was all-purpose. He expected to set four spades but if West wanted to take out the double East could support any suit.

West left it in and opened the queen of hearts. East started by taking three heart tricks. When West discarded the deuce of clubs on the third heart East stopped to figure out the West and South hands. It wasn't hard to decide that South held exactly three cards in the minor suits. He needed six spades for his two spade bid and he had shown up with four hearts.

East saw that he could settle for a sure one-trick set by leading a high club. He also saw that if South held three diamonds to the queen a diamond lead might give him the contract. South could play his queen of diamonds, enter dummy with a trump and lead a low club. If East rose with the ace, South would ruff, go back to dummy and lead a second club.

Where was the queen of diamonds? East knew. If West did not hold a diamond honor it would have been a cinch for West to discard a low diamond. Therefore, East led the eight of diamonds. West's queen forced dummy's ace and eventually East collected a trick in each minor suit.

Local Boys Do Well in State Meet

BY RALPH ROUNTON
Meeting their match against the state's best, the representatives of the Hope Juniors and Seniors High track teams still fared fairly well in the Class AA state championships last night at Ouachita Baptist University.

Although each man that went qualified for the finals, they met a much tougher road there. In the senior division Crossett won the team title easily, scoring high in nearly every event. Russellville won the junior division with Crossett placing a close second.

Racing to his customary easy win in the 440 yard dash, John Spraggins breezed to a state record time of 52.9 bettering the old mark by .2 tenths of a second, even though he was running on a very soggy track. John also placed second in a close 220 yard dash and will go to the meet of Champs next Saturday at Little Rock in these two events.

The junior 440, 880, and mile relay teams, composed jointly by Spraggins, Gary Hollis, Jimmy Alford, Terry Vines, William Dillon, Doug Rogers, and David Still, finished sixth in each of their events. Jimmy Alford also finished sixth in the shot put with a heave of 51-8½.

Buzz Andrews finished a close third in the 120 high hurdles, and never pressed in the 180 lows after an injury suffered early in the race. David Jones qualified in the lows with a 21.4, but placed eighth in the finals.

Karl Salb of Crossett set a state record in the discus, firing the oval 184 feet, 4¼ inches, eclipsing the old record by more than 15 feet.

Japan Takes Good Lead
TOKYO (AP) — Japan took a commanding 2-0 lead over the Philippines in Far Eastern Davis Cup competition today with victories by Koji Watanabe and Ichizo Konishi.

The Japanese need just one more victory in the final three matches to clinch the right to meet India in August in the zone finals.

Action for this year's biggest yacht event is in full swing and, by September, it builds up to the world series of the sport—the seven-race sail-off between the U.S. and Australia for the America's Cup.

That may be the anticlimax, according to some observers who have been caught off-shore in a sickening sea, watching two tiny sails on the horizon. The sailors on the 70-foot cup contenders may have more fun than the spectators.

"A yacht race," the late Grantland Rice once recorded, "has all the excitement of watching grass grow."

The best competition is likely to come before the finals. Then, it will be America's fastest big sailboat trying to beat the challenge of the speediest from Australia.

The Aussies will be sending Gretel, their gung-ho challenger of 1962, or their new Dame Pattie to the starting line. Both of the $500,000 boats have been racing through the Down-Under summer.

The United States will have one new boat and three holdovers for the expensive game. California is sending east Columbia, rebuilt since she soundly outlasted England's Sceptre in 1958. Her successful skipper then, racing car driver Briggs Cunningham, may steer her again.

When Columbia is shipped to Rhode Island's Newport in June, she'll square off against American Eagle with George Hinman at the helm, although 1962-winner Weatherly (four races to one against Gretel), may be used as Columbia's trial horse.

Biggest expectations, however, are held for Intrepid. Created by Columbia and Constellation designer Olin Stephens, she was recently launched.

After beating Britain's Sovereign in 1964, Constellation was sold to a Dutch yachtsman, but she's being chartered and shipped back home as a trial horse for Intrepid.

Since the yacht America won the cup in England in 1851, none of the 18 challenges over the years by Sir Thomas Lipton, Sopwith and the rest have been able to take "the old mug" out of the New York Yacht Club.

Kangaroos Coming to Back Charley

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Move over, Charley O. and look out, White Sox!

Three albino kangaroos are coming from Australia to back up Charley O., Kansas City Athletics mule mascot who toured the American League two years ago. The kangaroos may tour Queen, Cincinnati, 4-0, 1.000; Veale, Pittsburgh, 4-0, 1.000; Gibson, St. Louis, 4-1, .800; Seaver, New York, 3-1, .750; Jenkins, Chicago, 3-1, .750; Pizarro, Pittsburgh, 3-1, .750; C. Os-O, Finley, Los Angeles, 3-1, .750.

"They can jump 20 feet up, and the White Sox wall in center is only 12 feet high. We could just pat 'em on the back and they'd jump over."

"Charley O. was welcome everywhere but Chicago, you know," Finley said. "But we smuggled in a baby mule in an equipment truck, it romped on the field and the game was delayed about six minutes."

Finley's main purpose, however, is to impress "a few doubting Thomases" who wondered out loud and in print whether albino kangaroos existed and if so, whether the A's used them to make their white shoes.

"They questioned my veracity and even intimidated we used white dye on our shoes," Finley said. "So I called Sir Edward Halstrom, who is Mr. Kangaroo in Australia and asked him to have his men capture a few."

That was three weeks ago, Wednesday morning Finley received word Sir Edward's men had captured one male and two female albino kangaroos.

"The Three Ms" that's what we will name them," Finley said. "James M., Larry M. and Benny M., for Jim Murray of the Los Angeles Times, Larry Merchant of the New York Post and Benny Marshall of the Birmingham News."

Finley plans a Kangaroo opening night, adding "I hope those three gentlemen can make it."

Rick Finds Magic Fading

It's interesting to note the posture of Willie Mays in these tense times. Willie, who considers himself only a ballplayer, hasn't bothered to return to his old home in Birmingham, Ala., for four or five years, though his brothers and sisters still live there. "There's too much trouble down there," shrugs Willie, "and I don't want to get mixed up in it."

The romanticism of wearing the pin stripes of the New York Yankees hasn't dulled the practicality of Bill Robinson the touted rookie outfielder. Yankee Stadium is supposed to be unfair to right-hand hitters like Bill, and he says, "Very much so. I've already hit a lot of line drives into Death Valley (the vast expanse of left centerfield), and it's killing me so far."

At the age of 24, Rick Reichardt has been enriched by a $200,000 bonus and the fame that goes with being a major league ballplayer. "Unfortunately," he says, "I'm not as awed by baseball as I should be. I think that some of the magic that was in the game for me the last couple of years has left and I've grown a little too matter-of-fact about it." ... Ah, callous youth.

Rick's got a Look magazine opus coming up soon about his trip to Europe last winter, sponsored by the Dutch government, in which he talked to groups about baseball. ... The Wisconsin-bred slugger comes out with phrases like this: "Jay Johnstone (a young outfielder) has helped our offensive weaponry, as it were."

Reichardt doesn't anticipate the kidney he had removed last year will affect his career. But right now, he demands a lot more sleep than the average person and figures it will take him a year to a year and a half to regain his full strength. In the meantime, he still looks like a .300 hitter.

In reviewing his young major league career, Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians feels that he was brought up to the majors a couple of years too early—he arrived in 1962 at the age of 19—"but I'm also thankful because I got two years in on the pension plan."

Old Jimmy Piersall, the volatile veteran who's playing out the string with the California Angels in the dual role of coach and spare outfielder, doesn't worry about having the temperament to realize his eventual ambition of managing in the majors: "The big problem is to be able to stand the writers. I was only kidding. That was Ted Williams' favorite saying. But it is the toughest part of managing—giving the writers excuses why you don't win, being able to not criticize your own ballplayers and yet giving them enough to write. They have to be different every day and they have to be critical." Not a bad critique of the job.

When Mel Stottlemyre went back home to the state of Washington last winter, after losing 20 games, he spent the off-season in self-analysis. He decided it wasn't because the Yankees were a last-place ball club, dragging him down with them. "It was due to my lack of control," said Mel. "I was losing games that I was winning before because I didn't keep the ball down all the time on batters. And, in some cases, I have to remain tough, not give in to the hitter."

Between you'n'me, three big items are coming up on the pro football meetings' agenda May 23, and here are the educated guesses for their resolution: new administrative setup for the NFL—Jim Kensil to be the league league proxy; site of the Super Bowl for next January (Miami's Orange Bowl); American Football League expansion (Cincinnati a virtual cinch).

Van Breda Kolff to NBA

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PRINCETON, N.J. — (NEA) —The office resembles the set for a Pinter play.

The room is immense. The furniture consists of a couple of desks and chairs.

You would figure there might be a picture of Bill Bradley on the wall. There is none.

The only life in the dull, gray room is a full-length painting of a bewhiskered Princeton benefactor, Henry Marquand, a somber old gentleman, who has in his well-manicured clutches a copy of a newspaper.

"Undoubtedly the Wall Street Journal," Bill Van Breda Kolff said, that sardonic smile, which is as much a part of him now as his big cigars and his houndstooth sports jackets, crossing his animated face.

Soon there will be a new tenant staring across the desk at Henry Marquand. Bill Van Breda Kolff is finished battling the Princeton athletic department.

Next winter, he'll be back in the National Basketball Association as coach of the Los Angeles Lakers. His cigars filling the void created by Red Auerbach's retirement.

There are two main reasons why Van Breda Kolff is leaving Princeton. First, of course, was the matter of salary. Second was the manner in which basketball was regarded at Princeton.

Van Breda Kolff was not making nearly as much as other coaches around the country whose career records could not compare with Bill's (307-109).

More important, Bill was winning despite a basketball budget which probably would not cover half the recruiting costs at UCLA, Duke, North Carolina, and many other basketball schools.

There were battles over a full-time assistant coach (he finally got a part-time assistant, Art Hyland, this year), over the purchase of a movie projector to watch game films and over the amount of meal money allotted to his players.

The battle over the meal money was particularly galling to Bill. The players would have to give up their Christmas vacation to stay at school and practice or play in a tournament.

During this period, the school kept a dining hall open for foreign students and others who had to remain on campus during vacation. It served only lunch and dinner.

For breakfast, the team was on its own. The athletic department allowed $1 per player for breakfast. Van Breda Kolff, arguing that growing, young college athletes have trouble buying a full breakfast for $1 finally had the price raised to $1.50.

There is, however, a limit to the petty bickering a man can take. And Bill Van Breda Kolff never has been known for his ability to control his temper.

All season, there were hints that Bill had grown unhappy and when he finally resigned to take the coaching job with the Lakers, he did it knowing that he leaves behind the best basketball team in the East.

It would take a nice raise to lure a coach from a team like that. Presumably, that is what he received from Los Angeles.

Bill's departure was not entirely unexpected, but the sudden decision was.

A Forgotten Code of Ethics

Rep. Mathias (R-Md.) poses a good question. Why not, he suggests, have members of congress and their employees be guided by a code of ethics passed by the senate in 1958 and the house the year before? It was developed during the Eisenhower administration as a result of the revelations of wrongdoing by Sherman Adams, the president's right-hand man. The code declares that a public office is a public trust and goes on to admonish public servants, "Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not, and never accept... favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of government duties."

Simple. This would cover all the current scandals - Baker, Powell and Dodd, Codes of ethics, of course, don't guarantee purity. The Ten Commandments didn't end sin. But it is interesting to recall that nine years ago the congress was troubled enough to feel the need to approve this simple code or moral standards. Unfortunately, the code was forgotten as soon as it was adopted, and so the congress has to be concerned anew. Spartanburg (S.C.) Herald

Job For Congress

A bill has been introduced in both houses of Congress that could be a first step in solving several major American problems, among them, unemployment and poverty. The bill would give a 10 per cent tax credit covering the expenses incurred by private business and labor unions in apprenticeship training, on-the-job training under the Manpower Development Act, cooperative work-study programs and organized group and classroom instruction.

Such a tax credit would be a real incentive for the private sector to attack a situation that finds industry cutting back productivity and paying time-and-a-half labor costs while 2.7 million Americans are without a job. Industry needs skilled workmen, but most of the unemployed are without skills. Washington has assaulted the program with Job Corps camps across the country. At last count the corps had graduated 10,000 trainees at a cost of $54,000 each. Another 55,000 potential trainees had dropped out of the program.

The vitality of business is often praised by congressmen. They can now prove their faith in it by passing the tax credit incentive bill - and guarantee thousands of jobless the dignity of a weekly paycheck. - Dallas (Tex.) Morning News

Photos Reveal Hijackers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON (AP) - Three known London criminals have been identified through photographs by two guards and a truckdriver as the thieves who hijacked $2.1 million in gold bars from an armored truck Monday.

Scotland Yard said it was the first break in the nationwide search for the men who overpowered the driver and guards in a daylight ambush. None of the three wore a mask.

Police at docks and airports were given photographs of the three suspects and told to grab them on sight. Detectives circulated the pictures among underworld informers.

Police believe the stolen gold, weighing 1 1/2 tons, has been hidden in one spot

The three-member board recommended Tuesday that the license of Capt. Pastengo Rugiati be revoked because of alleged negligence

Viets Plan Civilian Rule

A civilian government emphasizing the balancing power between executive and legislative leadership appears to be shaping up for South Vietnam, long used to virtual dictatorships and military rule. Elections this fall on a one-man, one-vote basis would result in a government with a president and vice president, and a parliament consisting of a lower house and upper house. Members of the lower house would include 100-200 members, each elected by a different constituency, and an upper house or senate of 30-60 members, to be chosen on a nationwide basis. The president would select a premier, who in turn picks his cabinet. The assemblies could oust a cabinet member by two-thirds vote, or the premier by the same majority if the president agrees. If he doesn't agree, a three-fourths vote would be required.

War to Be Big Issue of Election

WASHINGTON (AP) - There isn't any doubt now, despite the Republican support for President Johnson on Vietnam, that the war will be a bleeding issue in the 1968 presidential race. Worse than that. It will be a sack of confusion.

The voters will be drenched in an argument over details and, since very few people are equipped with a chronology of events to help them analyze the arguments themselves, they will be looking at the speakers left, right, left, right, like watching a tennis game.

It comes down to this: while the Republicans back Johnson on fighting and trying to win the war, they are preparing to try to tear him to pieces for the way the war has been fought. But the Republicans will probably be arguing among themselves on what to find fault with or whether they should.

Last September, a few weeks before the 1966 congressional elections, the Republican leaders in the House issued a White Paper, an updated study of the similar White Paper of the year before, criticizing Johnson on Vietnam.

Now the Senate Republican Policy Committee has released a lengthy staff study pretty much paralleling the one put out by the House GOP leaders.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, no longer a member of House or Senate but a very active prospect for the Republican nomination next year, recently gave a taste of things to come.

In March, while in Paris on a fact-finding world tour, he said the bulk of the American home front stands behind the Democratic administration's policies and actions in Vietnam.

In April in Saigon he said he did not think the war would be an issue in 1968 but that U.S. tactics in prosecuting the war - such as the bombing of North Vietnam and manpower - would be.

This gives Nixon - and it appears to be Republican policy as it shapes up - freedom to talk in two directions at once. He said he thought the Democrats would be more divided over the war than the Republicans.

Whether another likely Republican presidential prospect, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, will follow the Nixon technique isn't clear yet although, in his recent but carefully prepared statement supporting the war effort, Romney gave himself plenty of room if he thinks he needs it to criticize.

Monday in the South Romney spoke out against actions that might weaken the effort to end the war or help the Communists.

"I don't think," he said, "we should pursue a way that will weaken the President as long as he is President."

Slots Seized on Raid at Spa

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) - Garland County Sheriff Eugene Canada and two deputies seized a slot machine, a dice table and some chips in a raid here Thursday night at the Convention Club.

Arrested and booked for exhibiting gambling equipment was the club's proprietor, Freeman Blake, 38, who was released on $500 bond after an arraignment was set for Tuesday.

Canada, who said he entered the club without a warrant, was to store the equipment at his office.

WR, Louisiana Governor to Talk

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen will discuss plans for toll roads in their states at a meeting May 9, Rockefeller said Thursday.

South Arkansas interests concerned with the pace of road work in adjacent areas of Louisiana urged him to set up such a meeting, he said.

Rockefeller said a recent engineering study by Wilbur Smith and Associates of New Haven, Conn., indicated to the Arkansas Turnpike Authority that it would be necessary to build toll roads that tie in with neighboring states.

Blind Musician, One of World's Most Popular, Really Loves Talent

By MARTIN ZUCKER

BERLIN (AP) - Singer Ray Charles wiped the sweat of an evening's performance from his brow and said: "I love my talent. I wouldn't trade it for anything, not even to have my sight."

As a child Georgia-born Charles was blinded by an optic nerve disease but went on to become a popular performer in the world with his own brand of "soul music."

This week, after a performance in West Berlin's Sportplatz, he talked about his blindness and his music. If he had the power to control things, would he give up his talent for his sight?

"That's crazy," was his surprisingly quick answer.

"There's no reason for me to give up my talent. It makes people happy. I love it and as long as I love it I wouldn't change it."

"What is left for me to see? I was blinded when I was 6. I know what the moon and stars and other things look like. There's nothing earth-shattering left to see."

Charles, who accompanies himself on the piano, plays a brilliant saxophone and also composes most of his hit songs, added: "Seeing or not seeing doesn't have anything to do with my music."

Toll Road Study Is Called for

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) - The Arkansas Turnpike Authority should conduct one feasibility study of a toll road in western Arkansas from the Missouri border to the Louisiana line, the executive board of the Western Arkansas Development Association decided here Thursday.

State Rep. Marion Crank of Foreman, one of 18 board members at the 2 1/2-hour meeting, said it was held to reaffirm the board's position in the face of suggestions that one study be conducted from Fort Smith north and another from Fort Smith south.

Crank said J. Fred Patton, the president of the association, and State Sen. Russell Elrod, who introduced in the legislature the bill creating the Turnpike Authority, had discussed with Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller the possibility of having the two studies.

Sentenced on Check Charge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Richard G. Abati, 31, of Alameda, Cal., was sentenced Thursday to two years in prison after pleading guilty in U.S. District Court here to fraudulent check charges growing out of a nationwide check-writing spree that netted him $9,000.

Blind Musician, One of World's Most Popular, Really Loves Talent

Barry Riller of Santa Ana, Calif., who plays guitar in the Charles orchestra, said, "Charles has a fantastic ear. It doesn't matter when or on what level but if you make a mistake he'll hear it. He makes us play better."

Charles and his troop of bandmen and "Raelets" - Westmoreland, commander of four girl singers - easily won over the Berlin audience with such songs as "I Got a Woman," "Georgia on My Mind," "Hallelujah, I Could Love Her."

So, a particularly suggestive "Baby, It's Cold Outside," and a stirring blues monologue done by Charles.

The 35-year-old Negro is known as a soulful musician and he was asked to explain what the soul in his music is.

"I tell you," he said, "the great voice before it gets better," word is greatly overused. I've heard records that are supposed to be soul but they didn't do anything to me. Soul - that's what makes your heart do something. When it touches you starting earlier this year with President Johnson's frustrations in trying to get the enemy to those that are listening feel your joy. When you play sad, they feel your sadness.

"My music comes from the way I feel."

The Berlin concert ended a three-week European tour for Johnson and the State Department have presented this country as having been very patient, perhaps too patient.

Hill Taken, Casualties Total 709

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) - U.S. Marines, their fatigues soaked with sweat, gazed wearily at the shell-torn hilltop they won Friday after 12 days of savage fighting.

Of the 1,400 Marines engaged in the chain of battles for three hills, 160 had been slain and 745 had been wounded. The Leathernecks had killed at least 577 North Vietnamese regulars. That many had been confirmed. Marine officers estimated 610 others may have died.

"Hill 881 North was secured by Hotel Company, 2nd Battalion, 3rd Marines at 1435 - 2:35 p.m. - today," a Marine announcement said Friday.

That hill, named on military maps like the others for height in meters, was the final objective.

The Marines earlier had wrested from the North Vietnamese the summits of Hill 881 South and Hill 861. With Hill 881 North, the three hills form an arrowhead pointed at Khe Sanh, a forward American command post four miles to the southeast.

The Battle of the Hilltops began April 24 when a Marine combat patrol approached Hill 861. A forward observation team came under fire and four of the five men in it were killed.

The outnumbered Marines pulled back and reinforcements - the 2nd and 3rd Battalions, 3rd Marines - were rushed in.

The North Vietnamese, also new in the area, dug their log-covered bunkers deeper and prepared for the attack.

Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, the Marine commander in Vietnam, said prisoners identified the Communist units as two regiments of the 325th North Vietnamese Division and said they had begun infiltrating into South Vietnam three months ago.

Peculiar War Is Now a Terrible One

WASHINGTON (AP) - In this peculiar war, dragging along as if time didn't count and the two sides couldn't hear each other, the fighting gets tougher, a little bit now, a little bit then, until it is a terrible war.

Getting tougher bit by bit is called escalation, a high-sounding phrase for stepping it up, and both sides, the United States and North Vietnam, have stepped it up.

It's like the heavyweight title bout between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain 78 years ago in Mississippi, the last bare-knuckle match of its kind under the old London Prize Ring rules which put no time limit on a fight.

It didn't make any difference how many times a fighter was knocked down. He lost when he the people for a step-up in the more or get up any more, it took Sullivan 75 rounds to get Kilrain into that condition.

Once more the United States looks ready to escalate again, although nobody is saying so exactly. But the groundwork for it has been laid over weeks and months.

Last week Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam, talked twice in this country, and Henry Cabot Lodge, the just-retired U.S. Ambassador to Vietnam, gave an interview.

What they did was let the American people know, by saying the end was not in sight, that victory won't come soon or easy. Or, to put it in the words of the Senate's Democratic leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the war is "going to be the worst before it gets better."

If all this is considered a way heard records that are supposed to be soul but they didn't do anything to me. Soul - that's what makes your heart do something. When it touches you starting earlier this year with President Johnson's frustrations in trying to get the enemy to those that are listening feel your joy. When you play sad, they feel your sadness.

National Music Week Sponsored Here by the Friday Music Club

By MARY ANITA LASETER Music has been defined as God's speech with man, its harmony the shadow of God's justice and its melody the sign of His deep love. Of all earth's tongues it is alone the one understood of every human soul.

During the week of May 7-14 the 44th annual observance of National Music Week will be sponsored by the Friday Music Club of Hope with Mrs. B. C. Hyatt coordinating the activities. Under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Music Clubs the first week following the first Sunday in May is observed as National Music Week. Since Calvin Coolidge served as its first honorary chairman, every chief executive has given his support to the week.

Regarding this, President Lyndon Johnson stated, "It is always a pleasure to help inaugurate National Music Week. The vigorous and growing musical activities in our country constitute an index of our culturally rich civilization. New audiences are developing major new opportunities for our talented young performers and composers. I join you in encouraging all of our citizens to take an active part in National Music Week and find pleasure and enjoyment in this annual expression of a national interest."

Since May 1950 the annual music festival has been a feature of the celebration in Hope, and for the past few years the week's activities have been expanded to include other phases of art.

Joining in this Fourth Festival of the Arts will be the Junior Auxiliary which will again sponsor the Clothesline Art Show for elementary students under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Hays, Jr. Using "A Child's Garden of Verses," Mrs. Hays has assigned each group a poem to be illustrated and great interest has been shown by the budding young artists. Ribbons will be awarded for excellence.

A new feature of the celebration this year will be the Hymn Festival on Sunday, May 7 at 3 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church. At that time the Community Chorus will be joined by a number of junior choirs. On Tuesday, May 9, elementary choruses of several hundred voices, directed by Mrs. Thomas Hays, Jr., and both Junior and Senior High School choirs and bands will be heard in a Festival at the Hope High School. As usual, the civic clubs will all have a musical feature on their programs.

Olds' flight of F4C Phantoms was escorted the F105 Thunderchiefs whose mission was to bomb the Hanoi transformer site seven miles north of the center of the Communist capital.

Olds said that as his flight got near the Phuc Yen airfield "two MIG21s were spotted at 10 o'clock high heading for the last formation of 105s."

"We broke into them," Olds related, "and when they saw us they quickly forgot what they were there for. One disappeared and the other got nailed. He was burning when I left him. An F105 pilot saw him go into the ground and I didn't see him bail out."

Olds, graduated in 1943 from West Point where he was an outstanding tackle on the football team, comes from a long line of military men. One member of his family was a colonel on Gen. George Washington's staff. His father, Maj. Gen. Robert Olds, was commander of the 2nd Air Force during World War II.

Olds, of Washington, D.C., is married to former movie actress Ella Raines. They have two daughters, Chris, 15, and Susan, 13.

He came to Southeast Asia from Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., and took command of the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing at Ubon, which calls itself the "Wolfpack Gang" because it has downed more than half of the 37 MIGs claimed by the Air Force in aerial duels. Navy pilots have downed the other 12 MIGs claimed by U.S. pilots.

Olds shot down his first MIG over the Red River Valley last Jan. 2, the day Air Force pilots downed seven Communist interceptors for the highest single-day kill of the war in aerial duels.

Both of Olds' MIG kills have been made with air-to-air missiles. The Russian-designed MIG21 is a bigger prize than the earlier MIG17, since it is faster and more maneuverable.

Only one other U.S. pilot, Lt. Hugh Wisely, a Navy flyer from Wayne, N.J., is credited with two enemy planes shot down, one a propeller-driven plane early this year and the other a MIG17 on April 24.

Olds flew 107 missions with the 8th Air Force in World War II and won two Distinguished Flying Crosses, two Silver Stars, the Air Medal with 27 oak leaf clusters, the British Distinguished Flying Cross and the French Croix de Guerre.

During the Korean War, he was in the Air Defense Command and, as he says, "missed the fighting."

"Doing my best for the good of my people."

Members of the Friday Music Club will entertain in the nursing homes.

Remembering that everyone can't attend the Hymn Festival tomorrow, the Friday Music Club has prepared a special Concert Time presentation to be heard on KXAR at the same hour, 3 p.m. In a tribute to Music will be given as well as some lovely examples of it.

At 44 He Is Hot Pilot for Air Force

By GEORGE ESPER SAIGON (AP) - Col. Robin Olds is 44 in a young man's Air Force but he's still one of the hottest pilots of the Vietnam war.

A World War II ace with 24 1/2 enemy planes to his credit then, he shot down his second Communist MIG21 Thursday to become the first double MIG killer of the Vietnam conflict.

"It was a great experience," he said when he returned to his base, Ubon airfield in Thailand.

"It was a mission to keep the MIGs off the 105s (F105 Thunderchiefs) and we did just that. We spotted four MIG17s later, but they didn't want to mix it up."

Communists Hit Special Forces Camp

By GEORGE ESPER SAIGON (AP) - Communist forces attacked a provincial capital for the third time in a month today and staged raids on a Special Forces camp and a village administration building that resulted in heavy Vietnamese military and civilian casualties.

In the three attacks, more than 100 South Vietnamese civilians were killed or wounded. The raid on Ham Tan, the capital of Binh Tuy Province 78 miles southeast of Saigon, killed 5 civilians and wounded 52. One U.S. soldier was wounded.

In another raid on the Tracvon village administration building at about the same time only 10 miles away, 8 women and 16 children were killed.

No significant ground action was reported by the U.S. Command today, but American pilots were busy over North Vietnam Friday hitting several key targets on the outskirts of Hanoi and striking surface-to-air missile sites just north of the demilitarized zone.

The raids cost the United States three planes shot down by ground fire in the Hanoi area, a spokesman said. It brought to 533 the total number of planes announced lost during the war. The three crewmen were listed as missing in action.

Hanoi identified them as Cmdr. James Lindbergh Hughes, 40, of Iowa; Lt. j.g. James Richard Shively, 25, of Texas and Cmdr. Gordon Albert Larsol, 40, of Minnesota.

Innocents Lie in Pain and Anquish

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) - Inside the dingy, dimly lit province hospital, the innocents and not-so-innocents of the Vietnam war lie in pain and anguish.

Their wounds, burns and missing limbs are testimony to the intensity of the conflict. Thousands more like them are spread through civilian hospitals elsewhere in Vietnam.

"When you first go through the wards, it's almost enough to make an instant dove out of you," a U.S. Army officer warned one visitor bound for the hospital. "But you will find that most of them were hit by Viet Cong fire or just got caught up in some Viet Cong attack. A good share probably doesn't even know which side hurt them."

In one bed a girl is huddled, her body badly burned. Other members of the family are nearby in much the same condition. Their house burned around their heads after an American helicopter crashed and caught fire. Inside the burned home, government troops found a Viet Cong machine gun.

Quang Tri's hospital, the only one in the province, was built to handle 350 patients. It has 450 plus mothers and children who sleep sometimes up to four to a bed while a wounded member of the family recovers.

Cries of pain and despair are rareties.

"Guts, that's what these people have got. Real Guts," says CPO William Green, Graybull, Wyo., a member of the U.S. Navy medical team assigned here.

He pointed to a shy, solemn-eyed girl whose bandages were being changed.

A Viet Cong mortar shell, fired into her home on the outskirts of Quang Tri City, had killed her parents and wounded her two sisters. Thanh, 10, lost a large part of forearm and a section of her hip bone. Bandages covered shrapnel wounds on her head, legs and body.

She had walked unaided into the room where the dressings are changed from her second floor bed in another building.

Next to her in the room was a government militiaman holding his 4-year-old son. A bunk of steel from another Viet Cong mortar had passed through the child's head. Dr. Knox Pittard, a Navy captain from Anson, Tex., said the child would be blind.
